The River Channel.

Repeated mention has been made in

he columns of the HERALD of the condition of the river bed opposite the city and on several occasions we have endeavored to impress on the Council the importance of removing the obstructions which will impede the progress of the water as soon as the rainy season sets in. Bars have been formed in different localities and on these have sprung up rank growths of wilthe nucleus of obstructions that will in flood times turn the water from its natural channel and cause overflows of the lower land on either bank of the river. Much damage will result to property in consequence. We are informed that a few hundred dollars expended in removing these bars now while there is comparatively but little water in the channel would secure a temporary guarantee against overflow and thus save thousands of dollars for the hundreds the improvements will cost. Some day when we have discarded the penny wise and pound foolish system of doing things as now practised and realized the truth of the adage that what is worth doing | kind; 500,000,000 of the Mogolian race at all is worth doing well, the people of Los Angeles will levee the river on each side for three or four miles opposite the city. These levees will be made high and wide enough to render property secure against the possibility of damage by overflow. They may be made useful in more ways than one as well as an ornament to the city. Suppose they are made fifteen or twenty feet wide at the top and rows of trees planted on either side. In a ful drives. The trees will secure them against the wash and wear of the water and using them for roads will pack them solid and keep them always in repair. Fighting For An Eel.

A fight between two eagles occurred at Masonboro Sound a few days ago. different landings along the Sound at the time, when their attention was attracted to the combatants by a piercing cry, often repeated at short intervals. The birds were each of the bald eagle species, and when first observed were about 200 yards above the Banks

One of the birds held pendent from his talons an enormous eel, which the other bird was endeavoring to get possession of. The bird possessing the eel was taken at great disadvantage, as it required the use of his talons to hold his prey, which left him but his beak with which to ward off the assaults of his foe. The attacking bird, realizing his advantage, swooped upon his enemy, tearing the feathers and flesh from the back and breast of his opponent. Long and fierce the struggle waged. Each of the birds was of enormous size, yet one of them, taken at so great a disadvantage, at last perceived that resistance was in vain, and, after one despairing wail, released its prey.

As the eel descended, and had nearly reached the water the triumphant bird, with victorious cry, swooped upon it, and firmly clos ng it in its talons, bore it away to the distant sand shoals. The struggle lasted about fifteen minutes .- Wilmington Star.

Louis Lewin & Co. are in daily receipt of the latest and most popular sheet mnsic. Being the agents of M. Gray, San Francisco this popular firm possesses extraordinary facilities for supplying their customers with the latest productions of the musical world. Yesterday Lewin & Co. placed on our table the following new pieces: "Molly Moriaty," a rollicking Irish song; "A Little Shoe that's faded" and "Deep is the Sea." all of which may be had at their store.

Virginia City Sufferers.

Messrs. Pridham and Haines were diligent in the work of collecting for the benefit of the Virginia sufferers. As a result of their day's work they telegraphed $500 last evening and still have on hand in cash and subscriptions $300. Such response on the part of our people is flattering to their hu-manity and liberality. Few cities will have a better record, and great honor is due Messrs. Pridham and Haines.

Burglars Coming.

The burning of Virginia City will not only cause great distress among the homeless poor of that unfortunate city, but will probably cause similar disasters in other cities. We have already received hints that many suspicious characters are on their way South. We may reasonably expect a large share of hard characters to arrive in Los Angeles very soon. Another installment, in addition to those already here, will require a strong and active police force to protect us. As the Council meets this evening we suggest that they have the vagrant laws enforced and employ a dozen night watchmen to be placed in different parts of the city. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

THE RED MEN.

Grand Pow-Wow Yesterday.

Parade and Interesting Ceremonies.

Shominac Tribe No. 50, Improved Order of Red Men, had its first anniversary celebration yesterday. The Tribe was organized one year ago with 57 members, and it now numbers 112. which the world imposes upon blood, The turn-out vesterday was quite a notable one, there being 75 in the procession, under the Marshalship of A. J. Hamilton, with Gus Katzenstein,

A. F. McDonald and D. T. Mooney as Aids. Desmond's brass band of thirteen pieces headed the column, and the following line of march was observed: Up Main street to the Plaza, down Main to Fourth, up Fourth to Fort, up Fort to First, down First to Spring, down Spring to Turn-Verein Congress from Arizona, is expected in Hall.

> When the large audience was seated, Sachem L. M. Holt in a few brief remarks announced to the pale faces present the object of the gathering, which was followed by music from the band, prayer by Rev. Wm. H. Hill, and a quartette, "When Evening Shades are Falling," by F. B. Fanning, Prof. Arevalo, O. W. Parker and J. F. Mohn, with Prof. Falkenau at the piano.

Sachem Holt then introduced the Orator of the Day, brother J. G. Eastman, who delivered the following Worthy Sachem, Chiefs and Brothers, Ladies and Gentlemen: During the period preserved to us by history it has been the custom of hations, orders and societies to celebrate with appropriate festivities the anniversary of days to which particular self, planted within his image to make importance was attached; days of or- it nearer like himself-the bud of heaganization or birth; days of triumph; ven, the flower of Gethsemane, the days of deliverance; of joy; of success. I am not the lineal descendant of Red Jacket, and you will require no proof that the mantle of the tawny Cicero of the Western world has not fallen upon my shoulders.

The Order of which our Tribe is a branch was born with and grew out of the same necessities giving birth to that greatest declaration of governmental principles which became the corner-stone of Liberty's noblest monument-a free country. The oppression of England which forced organized revolt did not impress all the victims alike. There were many timid souls who preferred to "endure the ills they had than fly to others that they knew not of," and who were willing for possible personal advantage and safety, with treachery base as hell to betray those with whom they would gladly have been companions in success, but in adversity and defeat, strangers, and, if necessary, enemies. It hence became necessary that the true, faithful and sturdy patriots who had resolved to resist oppression with life, fortune and honor should establish some organization from which cowards and traitors should be excluded, and in whose councils none but the honest, brave, liberty-loving and determined should participate. It also became necessary to adopt such Southern California Mutual Aid So- signs and secrecy, such modes of recshould protect them from betrayal, surprise or defeat.
